New Orleans
Jazz &
Heritage
Festival

The New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Foundation, Inc. is a Louisiana non-profit corporation organized to promote, preserve, perpetuate and encourage the music, arts, culture and heritage indigenous to the New Orleans area. A community board of directors consisting of thirty members governs the organization. To accomplish its mission, the Foundation presents in the City of New Orleans an annual festival and fair, the "New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Festival."

Profits generated from the festival are funneled back into the community through many programs including; community grants, neighborhood street festivals, the New Orleans Musician's Clinic. www.nojazzfest.com

Jimmy has performed at Jazz Fest many times, as a headliner and as a guest. Jimmy and the Coral Reefer Band took the Acura Stage on Saturday, May 4 to a large crowd of the usual suspects. Joined on stage by Zachary Richard and Sonny Landreth; Zachary opened for Jimmy years ago and Sonny Landreth appears on the new Far Side of the World CD, Jimmy gave a Triple Crown performance to the all-lawn-section of the Fair Grounds Race Course.

Earlier that week, Jimmy and the band joined the fire marshall at a S.R.O. show at the Margaritaville Cafe in the French Quarter. A scheduled performance by Club Trini fooled no one, so steps were taken to get jumbo video screens and close off the street. A few diehards began the queue as the sun rose, but most showed up that evening for an up close and personal performance.

Thanks to Karen McGaha and Peg & Mike Billings for Fedex'ing the photos...and lose that account number I gave you.

2002 Sun

Jimmy and the Reefers have embarked on the 2002 tour and newspaper reviews have flooded the Coconut Telegraph office. Headlines read "Buffett is as Buffett does" or "Buffett-buff Parrot Heads only come out at night," alluding to the Jekyll / Hyde existence many fans lead; Jimmy presumably acting as the acidic mixture in the smoke-filled beaker. One sip and your podiatrist is wearing a coconut bra, or, as in the case of astronaut Dan Bursch, having a cheeseburger and a conversation with Jimmy while defying gravity aboard the international space station.

In another article, headlined "Changes in Attitudes," Jimmy explains the light tour schedule to Steve Morse of The Boston Globe. "I'm spending more time having fun and going out and living the lifestyle I've been singing about," says the hedonistic troubadour whose odes to beaches, bars and beatniks have captivated his "Parrot Head" audience for three decades.

"I can still play, but it takes a lot of energy to do this kind of high-energy show," he says, explaining his scaled-back schedule. "I need my days off. I have a pace which I feel is good, but that pace doesn't allow for the demand for shows. If we were just selling 2,000 tickets, the [promoters] wouldn't be [complaining]. I try to do the best I can, but I'm not going to go out there and kill myself.

"I would hope that promoters and record companies would see the writing on the wall and try to find and promote younger acts to fill those venues. That way, they're not dependent on us to fill them all the time, so we can go to the beach a little bit. But when you look at who can fill them, you're looking at guys in their 50s, as opposed to a small percentage of people in their 30s who can do it. Believe me, I'm glad people want to come see us — and I love this job. But if I was a promoter, I think the state of the music business has not lent itself to more quality acts that can fill places and entertain people."

But the show must, and will, go on. Jimmy can't seem to put the luggage away, and while there are fewer stops each year, the Coral Reefer Express continues to pound the party principle home.

Ken Hoffman writes in The Houston Chronicle, "Buffett is simply a wonderful, gracious and engaging entertainer. It's so easy to like him. He's a pop star from vaudeville. In the middle of a serious ballad, a beach ball landed onstage. Buffett kicked it soccer-style and held up two arms to signal that the field goal was good."

Summer Tour

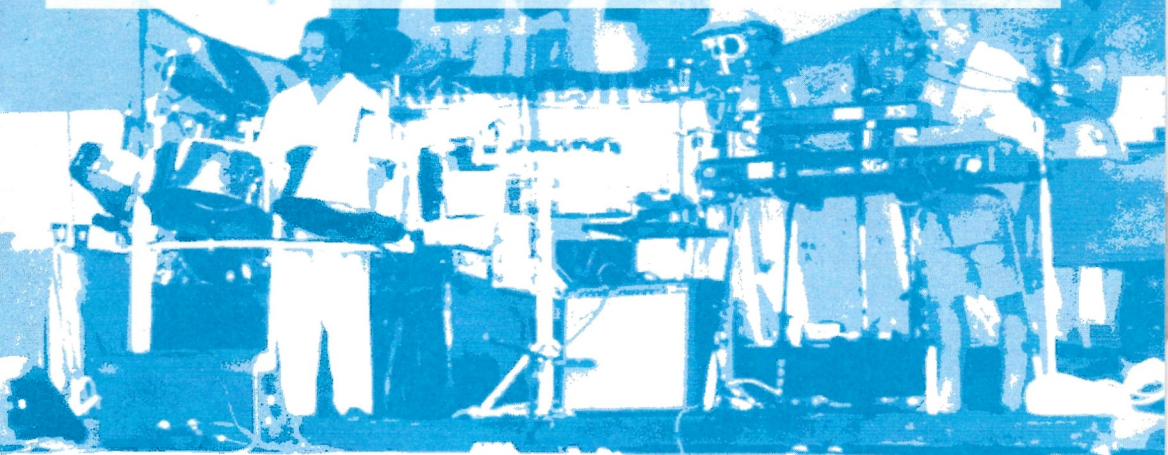

And no article, review, critique or criticism is complete without paying homage to the humble Parrot Head. Jimmy may light the match, but the 'heads provide the fuel for concert cook-off. A fan in a flowered shirt has mushroomed to an amphitheater full of garish costumes. The pickup truck bed is either a pool or a beach, why there's even a school bus that transforms into a Pirate Ship. www.buffettbus.com. Bankers, brokers, doctors and dockhands; the tired, poor huddled masses marinate in the Margaritaville Melting Pot. Anne Farley told Kati Schardi writing for Tallahassee's Democratic Staff Writer, "We're like a family. We band together. And somehow no matter how different we are politically or on other issues, this one thing makes everyone get along."

Although he is as perplexed by the phenomenon as anyone, Jimmy's take on Parrot Heads is that "they're basically pretty normal people with a slight strain of insanity".

Singing for Change enters its seventh year of grant making with the blessing of its famous founder, his band, and their loyal friends, fans and Parrot Heads. Without each of these important ingredients the magic wouldn't work. We are all part of the effort of rebuilding the world in ways that will make it more peaceful, more just, more productive, and more free.

Money isn't everything but it sure helps, especially the young, small, grassroots organizations that Singing for Change supports. Since 1995, Singing for Change has enabled hundreds of nonprofits to make significant strides toward self-sufficiency. In every city on Jimmy's concert tour and many small towns in between, Parrot Heads and "regular" folks alike have become familiar with Singing for Change and its mission of goodwill. They've learned to look forward to not only a great show, but to Jimmy's support of their favorite, unheralded charitable causes. After the grass skirts and shark fins have been put away, the tangible benefits of a grant from Singing for Change remain. For example:

The Children's Place at Home Safe, a United Way Member Agency, provides 24-hour residential and community based services to children and families impacted by child abuse, neglect, substance abuse and HIV/AIDS. Shelter is provided to children newborn to age 18 from locations throughout Palm Beach County.

Radio Margaritaville

Laissez Les Bon Temps Rouler!

Radio Margaritaville loves to let the good times roll! We spent a nice long weekend at the New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Festival.

Our first broadcast from the Crescent City was Thursday night, May 2, from the Margaritaville Cafe. That is where we caught up with Club Trini, who were soon joined by Jimmy Buffett, Sonny Landreth, and Zachary Richard. What a night.

Friday night was Sonny Landreth's night at the Café, and Radio Margaritaville listeners had a front-row seat in Levee Town.

We started early the next day with a live broadcast of a Radio Margaritaville favorite, James "Sunny Jim" White, from the Café. Saturday afternoon, our Radio Margaritaville microphones went where other radio stations rarely go - live to the main stage of the New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Festival. Of course, where else would you expect us when Jimmy Buffett and the Coral Reefer Band are holding court?

Sunday night, we wrapped up a great weekend back at the Cafe with a live broadcast of Ralph McDonald's New York All-Stars. If you couldn't be in New Orleans this year, the place to be was Radio Margaritaville.

Jimmy is certainly living up to the spirit of Far Side of the World, having shown up in some pretty cool places so far this season. Radio Margaritaville brought you Jimmy live from Duke's on Waikiki Beach, Hawaii. And our listeners were there when Jimmy surprised Jerry Jeff Walker at his 50th Birthday Bash in Austin, Texas! Other live concert highlights included Little Feat live from West Palm Beach, Dan Hicks and His Hot Licks from Sarasota and Freebo live from Orlando.

Have we mentioned Far Side of the World yet? Radio Margaritaville was certainly talking about it - with Jimmy himself. Jimmy stopped by for a preview of the entire album, telling the stories behind each song and sharing his thoughts on the inspiration behind this incredible record! You can count on hearing this program again soon on Radio Margaritaville!

And for those who want to travel to the Far Side themselves, Radio Margaritaville is offering listeners a chance to win tickets! Visit Radio Margaritaville for details!

 Subject: Your Flag

Dear Jimmy,

Thanks for the music and hope that you've given to us troops while we're overseas in Kuwait. As a show of my appreciation I had an American flag flown just for you through the Iraqi "No Fly Zone." The Iraqis can't go through that zone, but your flag did.

A salute with FINS,

To the Margaritaville Store,

Thank you for the recent contributions to Save the Manatee Club. These donations were received from the sale of manatee license plates and T-shirts.

Earlier this year, support like this helped to ensure that the state's elected officials heard the Club's voice for manatees during the Florida legislative session. The Club's voice was heard above several proposals that threatened manatee safety - and these proposals were weakened or dropped altogether.

Yet, this year may be the worst ever for manatees. Preliminary figures indicate that as of March 30th, boats have already killed 38 manatees since the beginning of the year.

Save the Manatee Club must continue the urgent work to stop these senseless mortalities. The Club is actively engaged in this effort as follows:

- Staff is busy monitoring the state's hearing about new safe havens and boat speed zones.
- We are closely following the effort by opposition boating groups to petition the state to reevaluate endangered status of manatees.
- And we must ensure that the manatee protection agreements at the federal level are implemented to their fullest.

This generous support helps the Club in these efforts and our other programs that seek protection for endangered manatees. We are deeply appreciative of the wonderful commitment you and the other stores have made to our work. On behalf of everyone at the Club, many, many thanks for these contributions.

Director of Development
Save the Manatee Club

Please call, write, fax, or e-mail policy makers, and let them know how important manatees are to you. Ask them to support protection for manatees and their habitat and to keep other environmental laws strong. It doesn't matter whether you live in Florida or outside the state. Any type of letter or call helps.

PHLOCKINGS

Social activities for people of similar tastes and interests.

Thirty-nine states, 2 Canadian Provinces, even the Land of Oz all contain groups founded on fun and philanthropy. Good times lead to good deeds when Parrot Heads decide to lend their efforts to community causes. From a river cleanup in Calgary, to a chowder cook-off in Rhode Island, baseball games to blood drives, Buffett fans contribute time, effort and money to make their world a better place.

Western New York Parrot Heads sponsor a Bowl-A-Thon to raise money for Alzheimers research, while brother Metro 'Heads put on some miles in a March Of Dimes Walk. Out west, Arizona Parrot Heads raise money to send children suffering from hemophilia to a "safe camp." They were awarded Best Of Show at the 2002 Tostitos Southwest Salsa Challenge for the, "booth that has the best overall presentation and spirit of fun." No surprise here. The Salsa Challenge was a fundraiser to send children to the Arizona Hemophiliac Society's Camp Honor program. Camp Honor is a "safe camp" where hemophiliac children can play without fear of injury. This year's challenge raised over $150,000 for the children.
